

"A flat filter for venting gas in intravenous medical lines"

Abstract of the description

Flat filter for venting gas in intravenous medical lines, comprising a case formed by a frontal plate and by a dorsal plate between which a hydrophilic filtering membrane is interposed. The dorsal plate has a single through hole for gas venting in communication with an elongated collecting channel formed on the inner surface of the dorsal plate and along which a hydrophobic membrane of complementary shape is applied.